Old Mill and Millgates Surgery Patient Participation Group (PPG)

What is it?

The PPG is a voice for patients of the practice.

Why is it there?

To improve the experience of patients and staff at the practice by meeting doctors, nurses, managers and staff to discuss what works well and what doesn't.

It is open to all patients of the practice to be involved.

If you'd like to be involved

Currently, a small group of volunteers meet every couple of months with the surgery team. Whilst there are a number of specific problems from time to time, overall things are going relatively well. A recent survey showed over 90% patient satisfaction and recent comments to Healthwatch are very positive about the attitude and attentiveness of staff members.

If you are registered at the practice and wish to know more or to join the group, contact us on omandmppg@gmail.com and one of the team will get back to you.

Do you teach, work with or simply spend time with young people and wish to have a better understanding of the signs and symptoms of poor mental health and importantly, how to promote positive mental health? Are you perhaps a parent who currently feels they lack the confidence, knowledge and skills to approach and start a conversation surrounding mental health with your child? Are you aware of what to look out for when it comes to depression, anxiety, self harm, disordered eating and even suicidal ideation?

If you wish to significantly increase this knowledge sign up for this one day, 8 hour course running as a face to face event at The Mill, Hempnall (NR15 2NG) on 10 November 2025

As an experienced Headteacher and lead in the field of mental health, I have trained over 500 teachers, sports staff, wellbeing leads and parents in my role as an MHFA Instructor. Please contact me on mike.a.crossley@gmail.com for further details.

There are spaces for 16 delegates. The cost for the course is £225 per person which includes the course materials comprising a Youth MHFA One Day bundle (comprehensive manual, workbook, action card) and in addition, all delegates receive a Youth MHFA certification from the national organisation MHFA.

Thought for the month...

Revisiting...

There is a lot made of new experiences, visiting different parts of the world, but many people enjoy going back to familiar places full of memories. Some return year after year, like migrating birds, to the same area, sometimes the same hotel, B and B or campsite. There is a certain kind of joy in retracing one's steps, of reconnecting with the past even if, in a restless world, we hear less about the value of sameness.

I have recently returned to Exmoor where I spent a lot of my childhood and have subsequently spent many holidays there with my own children. Luckily as a protected area it hasn't change substantially, though the sawmill which had lapsed has now been restored and is busy working again.

There were memories of walks by the rivers and long hikes on the moor but this time with different people the distances covered were much smaller and we shared different memories of the people who used to live in the villages and farms.

Sometimes returns are tinged with sadness or regrets but they can also revive memories of good times, funny incidents or of people we had forgotten about.

Going back can be revealing in a number of ways. Sometimes the place has changed and we haven't; on other occasions the place has not changed but we have. We have had new experiences, have grown older, if not necessarily wiser, and see the place through new eyes.

Memory will vary, too, for people of different generations as age influences the depth of the stored material.

Different people will have a range of memories and perceptions of the same event which is one of the pleasures of reminiscing with former colleagues or siblings.

This new look will affect us when we contemplate other experiences, reread a book or watch a film or play again. In the fast-moving world of the internet it can also be valuable to replay in our minds recent encounters or messages that have unsettled us before responding.

There are some memories that are too painful to revisit. This was highlighted recently by VJ events marking the 80th anniversary of this historic event within living memory.

So, as we revisit places or replay conversations and encounters, may we find a value in peeling back the layers of memory and allow the benefit of hindsight to give these experiences the richness of a further dimension.

*We will not cease from exploration
And the end of all our exploring
Will be to arrive where we started
And know the place for the first time.
Through the unknown, remembered gate
When the last of earth left to discover
Is that which was the beginning;*

~Jill Turner~

From Little Gidding by T. S. Eliot

A prayer for the joys of nostalgia...

God of yesterday, hope for the future,
As a song from yesterday lifts my spirits,
It's reached into my soul in a way that I just can't explain.
These are the moments that are worth more than gold.
Today I thank you for the flashes from yesteryear,
For the joys of nostalgia, and the stories which I carry.
Help me to savour the joy of memories.
But give me the drive to live fully in today's realm
And to dream about a future with hope.

Amen.

[Adapted from a prayer by an American pastor, the Rev. Michelle L. Torigian, available online]

Photograph taken on Hempnall Group Pilgrimage, Lindisfarne, 2007 by Penny Wall

May we experience those joys, through God's grace, both of nostalgia and hope.

With best wishes for September to all our readers.

Liam Pilgrim and Jill Turner, Co-Chairs of the Joint Council of the Hempnall Group of Parishes
